About the AMT blog

The AMT blog was launched in mid-September 2017. It integrates seamlessly with AMT's already strong social media presence and is the principal means by which the Association shares news, updates and articles of interest with AMT members and the broader massage therapy industry.

AMT publishes posts on the blog at least once a week. When there is breaking news, the publication cycle may be more frequent. Posts are shared via AMT's other social media sites on Facebook and Twitter, and via email.
