ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

This workshop is an introduction to assessing and working with scoliosis as a whole body, three-dimensional rotational dysfunction, with an emphasis on using body movement and manual therapy.

Methods taught in this hands-on workshop are drawn from Rolwing® Structural Integration, the Schroth Method, Visceral Manipulation, Onsen Technique, neurodynamic mobilisation, osteopathic soft tissue techniques, cranio-sacral therapy, Rolf Movement and Body Mind Centering. These are synthesised with ideas and observations accumulated from ongoing reading of current literature and research combined with insights drawn from physical anthropology and my clinical practice.

On the first day we will:

- revise basic concepts of fascia, gravity, proprioception, interoception and tensegrity.
- define terminology pertinent to scoliosis and discuss the various systems used in grading scoliosis.
- learn whole body assessments specific to scoliosis
- learn some useful postural models drawn from the Rolwing and Schroth paradigms that can better help understand the nature of scoliosis specifically and posture generally.
- work with rotational patterns in the pelvis and abdomen in relation to the thorax
- consider superficial considerations in working with the ribs.

The second day will be devoted to working rotation as it manifests across the entire spine (not just the thorax!) and the deep relationship of the ribs to the vertebrae.
